

Candy Strippers Enrich Teen Age Image

On Volunteer
Duty

Candy Strippers, volunteer teen agers at the South Bay Hospital, perform many duties in every department of the hospital. In action are these two Candy Strippers, left, Karen Simpson, 17, student at Mira Costa High School, sorting mail for delivery to the patients while Jo Bosaki, 17, also a Mira Costa student, answers the telephone at the information desk.

Youth Takes Another Bow

These Teens Give Hours of Service

There is an energetic and dedicated group of young women at the South Bay Hospital known as the "Candy Strippers." Approximately fifty girls in their pretty uniforms normally spend six hundred hours a month in doing things for other people.

They are at work in every department of the hospital except the emergency and operating areas. They provide services during the evenings and week-ends primarily when Auxiliary members are unable to give as much time.

Any girl at least 16 years of age, with a "C" average in her school work and her parents' consent, may be considered for membership in this organization.

Last summer a group of the South Bay Hospital Candy Strippers were honored by being invited to participate in the Cancer Drive by riding on the "Cable Car" through South Bay Cities. Each girl receives an identification patch and pin when she completes her first twenty-five hours of volunteer work. Then there is a red star awarded for every one hundred hours.

The South Bay Hospital Auxiliary has established a yearly Candy Striper Scholarship to be awarded for continuing studies in the field of health to a graduating Candy Striper.

Their Duties

These young volunteers are under the direction of Mrs. A. K. Beer, the South Bay Hospital Auxiliary's Candy Striper chairman. Talking over what's to be done are Marsha Palm, 17, student at Aviation High School, Mrs. Beer, and Barbie Geiger, 17, Palos Verdes High student.

Coordinators To Fete Junior Club at Party

Mrs. Dean L. Sears and Mrs. Leslie Steigh, coordinators from the Torrance Woman's Club, will entertain at the annual Coordinator's Party honoring all members of the Torrance Junior Woman's Club.

The party will be held Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. at the Woman's Clubhouse, 1422 Engracia Ave.

Throughout the year, Mrs. Sears and Mrs. Steigh attend all Junior meetings and functions, coordinating activities between the two clubs.

An evening of surprises is in store for the Juniors and all plans are kept secret until the event.

For Scholarships

Panhellenic Event

Members and guests of South Bay Panhellenic Association will gather January 24 for the group's annual scholarship luncheon.

Site of the Wednesday noon fund-raising event will be Los Verdes Country Club, Palos Verdes Peninsula.

All proceeds from the luncheon will go towards scholarships to be presented in the spring to young women graduating from local high schools. In 1967, Panhellenic awarded three $100 scholarships to girls now attending college.

A travel atmosphere will set the scene for the luncheon, and all attending will be eligible to win one of three vacation trips via Western Airlines. Trips will be to Palm Springs, Las Vegas and Acapulco.

Guest speaker will be Mason Mallory, director of sales promotion for Western Airlines. A resident of the Hollywood Riviera section of Torrance, Mallory will present a travelogue as featured entertainment.

Members of national Panhellenic sororities who are interested in attending may contact Mrs. Richard Dunbar for reservations today.

Local Artists To Enter

Marina District Show

Talent of Junior Clubwomen throughout the district will be on display at the Marina District Art Show to be held at the Inglewood Clubhouse tomorrow in conjunction with the conference of Marina District Junior Women's Clubs.

A large delegation from the Torrance Junior Woman's club, led by Mrs. Robert Vroman, president, and Mrs. J. Douglass Hedde, first vice president, will attend the conference.

Mrs. Jerry Kreutz, Fine

Arts chairman for the Torrance club, will be in charge of the Torrance entries in the Art Show. She announces that prizes will be awarded on the basis of quality of work shown; variety of media; presentation of display in regard to club entries.

Individual awards will be presented in the categories of oil painting and novice paintings.

Categories for the Art Show include oils, watercolors, charcoals, and novice paintings.
